DETAILED ACTION

ART REJECTION:

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1-13, and 17-31 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Tabe(6,762,686).

-- In considering claims 1 and 19, the claimed subject matter that is met by Tabe includes:

1) the at least one handset is met by the programmable reporter(50) which is selected to be a wireless phone communication means(54, column 6, lines 19-23);

2) the wireless receiver receiving communications from at least one wireless sensor is met by the receiver(not shown) of the wireless phone communication means(54) which receives coded signals from interactive detectors(10, column 6, lines15-23).

- Tabe does not show:

1) the cordless base connected to a telecommunications interface, and in communication with the handset.

Although not specifically taught by Tabe, the examiner takes Official notice that in the telephone art, use of a cordless base in wireless communication with a handset is well known, and therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to incorporate a cordless base into the system of Tabe, since the wireless phone would have required some form of base for recharging and synchronization purposes.

-- With regards to claims 2 and 20, the telecommunications interface being a telephone line is met by the hard wireless phone communication means(see: column 6, lines 19-22).

-- With regards to claims 3-4 and 21-22, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to incorporate an Ethernet based connection or commercial mobile radio service into the system of Tabe, since this would have facilitated communication between the reporter(50) and proper authorities(35) by providing communications means that are more reliable and more powerful during emergency situations.

-- With regards to claims 5-9 and 23-27, the sensor being used to detect intrusion, smoke, fire, breakage of glass, and temperature are met by the detectors(10) encompassing various sensors(column 6, lines 1-6).

-- With regards to claims 10-13 and 28-31, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to operate the sensor and base with handset at respective first and second different frequency bands, at any desired frequency band range, and under at least one subpart of FCC rule section 47 CFR 15.231, since Tabe already desires varied radio frequency of the sensors to improve reliability(see: column 2, lines 24-29), and therefore use of different first and second frequencies under 47 CFR 15.231 would have helped ensure the reliability of the system during signal transmission.

-- With regards to claim 17, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to incorporate an audio alert into the handset of Tabe, since this would have ensured that an operator of the system would have received and alert via audible reception.

-- With regards to claim 18, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to cause an audio alert at a second handset, since Tabe suggests communication of the security system with another wireless device such as a cordless the system containing a second handset that is caused to emit an audio alert is met by the reporter being programmed to communicate alarm conditions to a cordless phone(see: column 2, lines35-39).

Allowable Subject Matter

3. Claims 14-16 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
